Jeff Saylor
AMBUC of the Day

Jeff Saylor- Jeff said he has no photos of his loved ones with him, but they come in this order, his guns, his daughters, and his wife.

Mimi is quite aware of her place. He did take some time to download some information on the types of guns our troops are using in Iraq and the surrounding areas.

He then made a few political statements concerning the state government. He described the guns in great detail, but it sounded like he was speaking a different language, but we do know his passion.

Jeannie Cooke Danville Dans

The Danville Dan players have arrived in town and the stadium will soon be filled with people ready to see some very good games. The community works very hard using nothing but volunteers to make this happen. It has taken many years get the stadium refurbished and save it from demise.

At the beginning of this project much research went into deciding what type of team to form. The CICL league is the oldest of all sports college league's in Illinois and is partially funded by major league baseball.

This league does not travel quite as far as some other leagues so there is a cost saving, yet we get quality players. The quality of baseball played is often better than A level in the minor leagues.

The rest of the funding for the team comes from the community. The outfield fence is lined with sponsor signs and several of the large businesses in town sponsor a game night.

Jeannie reminded us that any child wearing his or her ball hat and shirt that they will be admitted to any Dans game at no charge.

Halo Painting Blitz
